Millowners' Reaction To Govt.'s Standard Cloth Scheme

COUNTER-PROPOSALS FOR SUBSTANTIAL REDUCTIONS IN PRICES OF YARN AND CLOTH

The reaction among the millowners, both from Bombay and other centres, to the Government's "skeleton scheme," designed to bring down the prices of cloth, was prompt but unfavourable.

The scheme was revealed by Mr. M. S. A. Hydari, Secretary, Government of India Industries and Civil Supplies Department to a Conference of textile interests at the Secretariat, on Tuesday.

The Committee of the Bombay Millowners' Association met for over an hour and a half at their office in the afternoon and considered the Government's Scheme. At the conclusion of this meeting, the All-India Standard Cloth Advisory Panel met for nearly an hour and further considered the proposals of the Government.

It is understood that a large section of the millowners has questioned the soundness of the scheme in the light of their experience that 50 million yards of standard cloth were left undistributed, though the production was much less than what was propcsed in the scheme of Mr. Hydari.

Apart from tardiness and reluctance which the millowners seem to fear, the question of the effectiveness of the control of yarn is also doubted. It is stated that yarn has already started flowing into the "black-market."

Representatives of the Cotton Textile Industry from all over India will meet again on Wednesday (to-day) and informally discuss the various aspects of the scheme with Mr. Hydari before the adjourned conference will resume its session at the Secretariat at 3 p.m. to-day.

It is understood that the decision of the millowners will be conveyed to the Government's representative after a full and frank discussion with him.

Millowners' Counter-Proposals

The following statement has been issued under the authority of the representatives of the Cotton Textile Industry from all over India including Indian States who were assembled in the room of the Millowners' Association, Bombay on Tuesday.

"The representatives of the Cotton Textile Industry from all over India who met this afternoon in Bombay to consider proposals to bring down the high prices for cloth prevailing at present felt that the public should know the reasons why prices have risen to the present levels. As early as September 1941, the Industry advocated to the Government of India a ban on exports, which were rising at a feverish speed, in order that large quantities might be available for home consumption. Since then, in spite of several reminders and continued advocacy of a substantial reduction of exports, the Government of India not only failed to take any action but permitted still larger exports to the extent of 1,000 million yards compared to 100 million yards pre-war excluding Burma. As early as October 1941, it was the unanimous view of the Industry that then was the time to serve the public from whom they earned their living and whom they expected to serve in future, with the object of bringing about a reduction in the prices of cloth.

CHARGE AGAINST GOVT.

With that end in view, a scheme was submitted to the Government of India in December 1941 for the sale of a substantial quantity of standard cloth at cheap prices, and Government were urged to take active measures in order that the prices may remain within control, but no action was taken by Government. When prices began to rise, in June 1942, a representative of the Industry wrote to the Government of India pressing them to take action, but without avail. If prices have risen, the blame cannot now be laid at the door of the Millowners of India: the fault lies rather on the large quantity of 1,000 million yards permitted to be exported in the year 1942, which together with the large requirements of the Defence Services, left only 1,800 million yards for consumption in India.

Fortunately, the position has changed in the year 1943. Production is expected to reach 4,800 million yards, and making allowances for the requirements of the Defence Services and exports, it is anticipated that 3,600 million yards will be left for local consumption, which is practically double the quantity that was available in the year 1942.

"The Millowners of India are not only anxious to see prices reduced but they have constructive proposals, which, if adopted, by the Government of India, would result in substantial reductions both of the cloth and yarn prices. Accordingly, it will be easily understood by the public that the Millowners do not and never wanted to be in the position of tax gatherers for the Government of India because four-fifths of the

TEN KILLED IN LONDON RAID

LONDON, June 1.

A total of ten persons is now reported to have been killed in last night's raid by two German planes on London.

Two German aircraft which flew across the south coast to London area during a brief night alert dropped bombs which damaged a few houses and caused a small number of casualties. Four persons were killed and three injured when a shelter in one London suburb received a direct hit.

It is officially announced that four Axis fighter bombers were destroyed by our fighters in a raid on the south-east coast of England this afternoon.

A sharp attack was made this afternoon on a south-east coast town by 12 Fockewulf fighter-bombers which dropped their bombs all over the town. A large number of houses were damaged but it is not thought that the casualties are heavy. In addition to four raiders destroyed by fighters, two were hit by anti-aircraft fire and may not have been able to return to their bases.

Nazi Attack On Donetz Bridge-Head Repelled

MOSCOW, June 1.

A supplement to to-day's Soviet Communique states that on the western front Soviet artillery shelled German positions destroying four blockhouses and two dugouts.

In the area of Lisichansk (Northern Donetz) the Germans in an attempt to recapture the previously lost positions launched two unsuccessful attacks.

West of Rostov on the Don, Soviet artillerymen partly annihilated a battalion of German infantry.

Morning despatch from Reuter's special correspondent in Moscow. Soviet bridgeheads on the Donetz are proving a thorn in the side of the German command. They again tried to wrest tactical vantage points from the Red Army in the last 24 hours. Action developed in the afternoon and lasted till nearly dark which only comes towards 22-00 hours at this point of the front. Two German attacks were flung back at a big cost to the attackers

Turkey To Join Allies

Gordon Young Expects Big Drive In Burma

LONDON, June 1.

Prophecies made by foreign diplomats in Sweden about the coming summer are listed by Mr. Gordon Young in the "Daily Express" to-day.

He writes: "The Anglo-American offensive is going to be larger but later. Allied efforts to give Finland peace will fail. The political situation may lead to America's breaking with Finland. Sweden will stop the transit of German traffic.

Turkey will enter the war on the Allied side. The reasons people give for this belief are Turkish dissatisfaction with Bulgaria, her improved relations with Russia, her expectation that she will play her role in the peace settlement and her own growing military power.

HOPE FOR BURMA

Burma will see a big drive by Field Marshal Wavell at the turn of the summer, probably co-ordinated with surprise American operations in the Pacific.

Berlin Awaits Allies

The German High Command Spokesman, Gen. Dittmar, broadcasting to-night from Berlin said: "Those who must attack are our opponents, not ourselves.

The question of who is able to attack is less important at present than the question of who is forced to attack. Unlike 1918 the United States and British Empire war potentials were now divided.

"These thoughts", he added "are not meant to delude the German people with cheap arguments over the gravity of the present situation. After the painful loss of Tunisia our enemy must not only come nearer.

AXIS MORALE CRACKING

WESTPOINT (New York).

"The enemy's morale is beginning to crack under the hammering blows of aerial bombardment and the Allies are now ready for a decisive year" Gen. Henry H. Arnold, Commander of Army Air Forces, told the graduating class of Army Cadets.

He added that during May alone the Air Transport Command "sent over 1,800 planes across the Atlantic and Pacific."

U. S. COAL STRIKE IN FULL SWING

NEW YORK, June 1.

The general national coal strike is in full swing with the majority of miners failing to report for work on day shifts. First reports indicate that at least 350,000 men are idle in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Indian troops played a major role in the battle for Enfidaville (Tunisia) which was bitterly defended by strong German and Italian forces. Batteries of twenty-five pounders laid a heavy barrage on the enemy positions prior to the infantry attack. Photo shows the twenty-five pounders in action.

GIRAUD-DE-GAULLE AGREEMENT, NOT YET

LONDON, June 1.

Reuter's special correspondent with Allied Headquarters in North Africa says:— Contrary to expectations a meeting between Gen. Giraud and Gen. de Gaulle delegations failed to materialise this morning and up to 14 hours they were very uncertain as to whether any further discussions would take place before tomorrow. Officials on both sides are still insisting that absence of news or any announcement of progress does not necessarily indicate that insuperable obstacles are being contended with. There are still high hopes of a concrete union being effected this week.—Reuter.

Wavell's Malaya Report Won't See Light Of Day

Attlee's Reply To Commons Question

WESTMINSTER, June 1.

The Deputy Prime Minister, Mr. Attlee declined in the Commons to-day to publish Field Marshal Wavell's report on the loss of Malaya and Singapore "until it can be done without giving useful information to the enemy."

He added that the same applied to the dispatches concerning the Norwegian and Grecian expeditions.

ER. EMPIRE CASUALTIES

The total British Empire casualties during the first three years of war are 514,993. The killed number 92,085, missing 226,719, wounded 88,294, prisoners of war 107,891. These figures were given to the Commons to-day by the Deputy Prime Minister, Mr. Clement Attlee.

FATE OF FAR EAST PRISONERS OF WAR

The fate of 33,300 British officers and men of the Navy, army and the R. A. F. who served the Far East is still unknown. Information has been received regarding 24,300 officers and men.

The War Minister Sir James Grigg giving these figures in the Commons to-day said that THEY DID NOT INCLUDE INDIAN and Dominion personnel.

PASSAGES FOR WIVES OF CIVILIANS

The possibility of providing passages for wives of civilians resident in India is under consideration in the light of the present conditions but opportunities will continue to be severely restricted by the shortage of accommodation, Mr. Amery told a questioner in the Commons.

There had been some exceptions to the ban imposed by the Government of India in April, 1942, on the entry of European women and children on account of the military situation in the East. These exceptions concern families of certain civilian technicians needed for essential war production in India and who made this a condition of appointment.

"Rescuer Of Middle East Countries"

LONDON, May 31.

The achievements of British and American Supply Corporations and the Joint Middle East Supply Centre in supplying the needs of nearly 100 million people in countries of the Middle East are reviewed by the Industrial Correspondent of the "Daily Mail" to-day.

The United Kingdom Commercial Corporation put Persia's boot industry back on its feet the correspondent says and came to the rescue of the Turks.

"Before North Africa was conquered the United Kingdom Commercial Corporation and the Middle East Supply Centre had already 80 million people in the Middle East countries crying out for food, clothes, materials and markets", he says. "Thanks to the assistance of Britain and America Palestine has trebled its exports and raised the standard of living of its people. This co-partnership born in the stress of the world war may prove of lasting benefit to the stormy country. The United Kingdom Commercial Corporation is making friends we shall need after the war when swords have to be turned into ploughshares."—Reuter.

BUTHIDAUNG AREA BOMBED

Considerable Casualties Inflicted On Enemy

NEW DELHI, June 1.

During the past ten days, a number of localised encounters have taken place between our troops in the Tiddim area of the Chin Hills and Japanese units operating from Kalemyo towards Tiddim by way of Fort White, says an India Command Joint War 'communique.'

Considerable casualties have been inflicted on the enemy who are now holding positions between Kalemyo and Fort White. Our own losses in the series of engagements have been moderate

Yesterday May 31, a formation of R. A. F. "Blenheims' supported our troops in the Chin Hills by bombing two enemy positions between Kalemyo and Fort White, and throughout the day, fighter patrols attacked objectives in the same area. "Hurricanes" machine-gunned enemy targets in the Buthidaung area. One of our fighters is missing but the pilot is safe.

Further investigation has now confirmed that six enemy aircraft were destroyed by our fighters in the raid on Chittagong airfield on May 29, and not four as previously announced.

U. S. AIR ATTACK ON BURMA

B-25 Medium bombers of the 10th U. S. Air force on May 31 attacked enemy railroad installations in Burma at Mandalay, Monywa, and Legyi, says a "communique" issued by Rear Echelon Headquarters United States Army forces China, Burma, India.

At Mandalay, hits were observed on warehouses, rolling stock and tracks.

Fighter formations made many sorties against enemy ground installations, supplementing strafing attacks with bombs of medium calibre, incendiary clusters and fragmentation missiles. At Manywet the village and buildings on the airfield were damaged, five fires were started. At Tumbonghka. 12 miles north of Manywet, six buildings were left burning. A military food dump at Shingban was among enemy stores destroyed in the day's operation.—A. P.

Post-War Peace Problem

Sumner Welles' Plea For International Tribunal

DURHAM, (North Carolina) May 31.

An International Armed Force to ensure that world peace is maintained inviolate, an international tribunal to which international controversies can be referred, an efficient international method for outlawing certain kinds of armaments and for inspection of all national armaments, creation of technical organisations to deal with economic and financial matters, and recognition of equal sovereignty of all States, coupled with equality of opportunity for all people.

The above were the cardinal principles which Mr. Sumner Welles, United States Under-Secretary of State, outlined in a speech here as the basis for any post-war United Nations' organisation. He said that the long-range problem was the achievement of a permanent peace, and no heed must be paid to cynics who argued that because there had been wars in the past there would always the wars, and that the surest way for the Americans to save their own skins was to mind their own business and pretend what went on in the rest of the world did not affect them.

Continuing Mr. Welles said: "The people of this country have seen that the policy was tried out and failed utterly and miserably had we been willing to play our part in keeping the peace of the world since the last world war, the cost to us in life and the treasure would have been but an infinitesimal part of the cost required from us to-day so that we can achieve that victory which we must gain if the United States is to survive as a free nation." While it would be premature at this stage to attempt to define precisely and in detail any exact plan of intentional co-operation, the United Nations would have to maintain order for a number of years in chaotic world conditions which would follow war. The ultimate course for the United Nations should be to construct an international organization by the method of gradual evolution.—Reuter.

HYDARI ADUMBRATES GOVT.'S SCHEME

assessable profits have to be surrendered to Government."

Govt.'s Scheme

The regulation and rationalisation of production fixation of maximum ceiling prices for cloth and yarn; preparedness on the part of the Government to buy up cotton on their own account if prices fall below certain level which they consider to be fair, requisition of cotton by whomsoever held at the maximum basic price of Rs. 550 and steps to prevent the hoarding of cloth and yarn are some of the measures which the Government of India proposes to take to establish control designed to regulate prices of cloth and yarn and to increase their production.

The proposed control will be brought into operation in British India and the Indian States. These measures which the Government proposes to take to prevent the sweeping rise in the cost of textiles and yarn were revealed by Mr. M. S. A. Hydari, Secretary, Government of India, Industries and Civil Supplies Department, addressing a conference of textile interests called here to consider the abnormal situation created in the textile industry.

"In the position in which both the textile industry and the consumer find themselves to-day, there is no escaping the conclusion that the only effective remedy lies in the establishment of control designed to regulate prices of cloth and yarn and to increase their production", said Mr Hydari, making an exhaustive statement before the Textile Advisory Pannel to-day.

Mr. Hydari was explaining the measures which Government proposed to take to establish control.

Mr. Hydari continued, "The Government of India have, therefore, decided to establish such control as soon as they can set up the necessary machinery of control.

CONTROL SCHEME.

"In arriving at the decision to establish control," said Mr. Hydari, "The Government of India had necessarily to work out a scheme of control in broad outline.

The essentials of the scheme of the control are (1) regulation and rationalisation of production and (2) fixation of maximum ceiling prices for cloth and yarn.

Mr. Hydari explained that the control organisation would be under two officers styled the Textile Commissioner and the Additional Textile Commissioner.

PEGGING PRICES

Dealing with the question of fixation of maximum selling prices Mr. Hydari said, "This involves the fixation of two sets of prices; maximum prices ex-mills and maximum prices for retail sales.

Here I may mention that to avoid the middleman and the retailer making undue profits we have decided to adopt a suggestion by the industry that the retail prices shall be stamped on the cloth.

The margin between the ex-mills and retail prices should be wide enough to provide adequate remuneration for such middlemen as actually perform the necessary function of linking the manufacturer with the retailer.

The effect of thus pegging these prices will be to force the retailer to buy from the wholesale dealer only at a price which will enable him to make a reasonable margin of profit within the maximum retail price; the wholesale dealer will only buy from a mill at a price which will enable him to sell at a profit to the retailers the mill will only buy cotton at price that will enable it to show a reasonable margin of profit on the price realised from the wholesale dealer".

RAW COTTON

Dealing with the question of the prices of raw cotton Mr. Hydari said "It is clearly important to ensure that these should not fluctuate violently. The indirect check imposed by the fixation of ceiling price of cloth and yarn may perhaps not be decisive in itself: but it has already been supplemented by measures which have recently been introduced to control cotton trading in organised markets.

HOARDING MENACE

Explaining steps to prevent hoarding, Mr. Hydari said "Finally, steps will be taken to ensure that cloth and yarn which are placed on the market, keep moving that no one, whether manufacturer or a merchant, is able to keep stocks beyond a reasonable limit for longer than a fixed period of time.

As a check on this we propose to adopt another suggestion emanating from the industry that the date of manufacture be stamped on each piece of cloth.

It follows that these steps will be supplemented by measures designed to bring on the retail market all existing stocks wheresoever held both of cloth and yarn immediately.

Referring to the Standard Cloth scheme which was designed to make cheap cloth available to the people in certain defined varieties, Mr. Hydari said that the scheme had so far failed to provide cloth either in substantial quantities or at a constant and low price

The Government of India had considered the problem of cloth and yarn in all its varied aspects and they had come to the conclusion that piecemeal tinkering here and there would not do; and that if any progress was to be made and sustained in the matter of making substantial quantities of cloth available to the public in India at levels lower than they had reached so far a more comprehensive approach to the problem was required than had been attempted so far.

Mr. Hydari declared that the control measures would be brought into operation in British India as well as Indian States which had willingly agreed to co-operate with the Government of India and were taking necessary steps to fall in line with them.

AN APPEAL to all consumers of
PETROLEUM PRODUCTS

The offensive phase of the war has begun. It brings with it the problem of supplying ever-increasing quantities of petroleum products to the Services whilst meeting in addition essential civil needs.

Without containers — tins, cans, drums and barrels — the distribution of oil is impossible. But the basic material of their manufacture is steel which to-day is needed first and foremost for the production of ships, tanks, guns, ammunition and other sinews of war.

Therefore the full co-operation of consumers is essential if the limited supply of containers still available to the Oil Industry is to give the service now required of it.

BURMAH-SHELL urges all users of petroleum products to protect petrol and oil containers from RUST, DAMAGE and DIRT and

CLOTH CONTROL

For months past we have had a lot of talk by officials about cheap cloth but precious little of the cloth itself. Every now and then a meeting is held, resolutions are passed and schemes of cheap standard cloth announced but when the cloth fails, as usual, to appear, a fresh meeting is held, and bigger schemes are devised and explained at greater length. And all the while the prices of cloth have been getting frightfully high. At the conference of textile interests held in the city on Tuesday Mr. S. A. Hydari, Secretary, Government of India, Industries and Civil Supply Department, explained at great length a new scheme more comprehensive than all the previous ones. But the people will be more grateful for the early materialisation of any of the schemes so far announced.

A welcome feature of the new scheme is that Government recognise therein the need for a wide balanced control, as distinct from the one-sided one which has prevailed so far. "In the position in which both the textile industry and the consumer find themselves to-day", says Mr. Hydari, "there is no escaping the conclusion that the only effective remedy lies in the establishment of control designed to regulate prices of cloth and yarn and to increase their production." It is also announced that the new comprehensive plan includes the regulation and rationalisation of production, fixation of maximum ceiling prices for cloth and yarn; preparedness on the part of the Government to buy up cotton on their own account if prices fall below certain level which they consider to be fair, requisition of cotton by whomsoever held at the maximum basic price of Rs. 550 and steps to prevent the hoarding of cloth and yarn.

It is unnecessary at this stage to discuss the various details of the scheme but it is necessary to emphasize the point that the main idea should be to stimulate production, discourage hoarding and penalize profiteering. This implies that the prices of cloth should be high enough to act as an incentive to produce and sell more, but they should never be allowed to be so high as to hit the poor consumer. These apparently divergent interests can be reconciled if, on the one hand, exports of cloth and yarn are suspended or are reduced to the bare minimum necessary to retain contacts with foreign markets and, on the other production is maximised. But Mr. Hydari's references to exports are not reassuring enough. He says: "The citizen of India is our first concern; but what is proposed primarily with a view to alleviating his position in the matter of cloth will also help India to export appreciable quantities of cotton cloth of guaranteed qualities and at reasonable prices to her neighbours." No cloth should be exported at present till our own minimum requirements are met. And this applies particularly to the cheaper varieties of cloth. Finally we must repeat that present shortage of cloth cannot be fully met unless hand-spinning and hand-weaving are organised on their fullest possible extent. From this point of view Government's repressive measures against many Khadi organisations are wrongs, both politically and economically.

Chinese Strike Back

The Chinese counter-offensive in Central China is a gallant challenge to the big Japanese offensive and will be watched all the world over with keen interest but with tense anxiety, too. The battle which was joined some weeks ago is essentially for China's "rice bowl", a rich rice producing region. It was, and is, the intention of the Japanese to overrun the region before the harvest is gathered and thus to starve a China already suffering terrible hardships through Jap blockade on the one hand and, on the other hand, the neglect of China by her Allies. The consequences of Japanese success would be grievous if not disastrous for the Chinese.

The Japs knew this and they mounted a big offensive in great strength. They had practically every advantage on their side as against a pitifully ill-armed adversary and they made progress, serious progress, too. But that ill-armed adversary has once again, as so often in the past five years, struck back. As the special Chungking communique suggests, the Japs have been out-manoeuvred. The pursuer is now the pursued and five of his divisions are threatened with that fate which he set out to inflict upon the Chinese. It is gratifying to note that almost for the first time Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek's forces have received air support. The American and Chinese air forces are quite small but they are doing good and effective work in enabling the land forces to operate so satisfactorily. But it would be a mistake to suppose that the Japs have been beaten. The counter-offensive has certainly made unexpected progress, but the battle is not over at all. Victory has yet to be achieved. That is why developments will be watched with interest as also with anxiety.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

Italy's Doom

One cannot but feel profound pity for Italy. She is in for it and with a vengeance, thanks to a melodramatic megalomaniac, Mussolini. The people's morale is rapidly going down, throughout the long years of this war they have known few victories but experienced the bitter humiliation of a whole series of defeats at the hands of every adversary they took on. They have lost an Empire and are suffering material privations of a blockaded, beleaguered people. In the circumstances a single big air raid is a dire misfortune. But actually they are being visited now almost daily by hundreds of "heavies", to say nothing of other bombers and fighters. Italy is being devastated. But devastation by air is one thing, conquest is another. That can only be achieved by a military invasion, unless a completely unexpected surprise occurs.

Admirable But—

Mr. Sumner Welles, the U. S. Under-Secretary of State, formulates the following cardinal principles as the basis for any post-war United Nations organisation:

"An international armed force to ensure that world peace is maintained inviolate, an international tribunal to which international controversies can be referred, an efficient international method for outlawing certain kinds of armaments and for the inspection of all national armaments, the creation of technical organisations to deal with economic and financial matters and the recognition of equal sovereignty of all States, coupled with equality of opportunity for all people."

These are admirable principles. But they are relevant as among sovereign independent nations. What about those unfortunate peoples who constitute the "Empires' of the prospective victors? Have they no right to equality with others? Mr. Welles says nothing. Nor does he say anything about the Atlantic Charter.

Uplift Of Backward Classes

Sound ameliorative schemes have been recommended by the Committee appointed by the Bombay Government to consider ways and means for the improvement of the Backward Classes. The only cause for regret is that, as the Committee itself points out, the necessary schemes require the expenditure of many times the sum of Rs. 25 lakhs earmarked for the Backward Classes from the Special Development Fund. Though this Fund is meant for expenditure which is either non-recurrent or spread over a period of not more than five years, the Committee recommends that the measures financed from the Fund should be continued and developed after the period of five years to which the expenditure is limited and that recurring provision of Rs. 5 lakhs or more should be included in the general Budget for this purpose. We trust the modest expenditure recommended by the Committee will be sanctioned by Government.

Latest In "Gandhi Series"

"To the Hindus and Muslims" is the title of the book very recently published by Anand T. Hingorani of Karachi, (pages 503, price Rs. 6/8). It is the third volume of the well-known Gandhi Series, the first two being "To the Students" and "To the Women." The plan is evidently to collect Gandhiji's writings under suitable heads and it has been commended by Gandhiji himself. The present volume contains nearly two hundred articles on the question of Hindu-Muslim Unity, taken mainly from "Young India" and "Harijan." The collection is up-to-date and contains Gandhiji's remarks on the communal tangle in his address to the A.I.C.C. on August 8, 1942. There is naturally much repetition in the collection and much of it could have been avoided with careful pruning and more rigorous selection. But there are many ideas in Gandhiji's writings which can bear repetition and this is particularly true of his writings on the Hindu-Muslim Problem. The book is well printed and got up and deserves to be possessed by all interested in this problem and Gandhiji's contribution to its solution.

V. D. SAWARKAR

(By D. W. JOSHI)

Born early in the eighties of the last century of an humble but highly respected Chitpawan Brahmin family in the small town of Bhagur near Nasik, Vinayak Sawarkar even during his schooling period exhibited marvellous attitude for recitation of inspiring religious poems and national songs which helped him to cultivate the art of writing poetry depicting his high soaring imagination and the throbbings of his heart. His intelligent personality with well-cut features and commanding look attracted his young compatriots soon after he joined the Fergusson College in Poona. The patriotic writings of Lok Tilak and Prof. S. M. Paranjpye of 'Kal' made an indelible impress upon his mind and in his enthusiasm he actively participated in burning foreign clothes. This led to his being turned out of the college hostel. Soon after his graduation he went to England to prosecute his studies for the Bar.

During his college career, he showed himself as a brilliant writer of prose and poetry and he had made a mark as a powerful speaker in Marathi and English as well. Lajpat Rai's Life of Mazzini and Sawarkar's translation of Mazzini's Autobiography were favourite nationalist text books. Later on Mr. Sawarkar wrote "Abhinawa Bharat" and "the War of Indian Independence of 1857". This latter was a very remarkable history of the happenings of 1857, combining considerable research and great literary power and all this literature sent to the Indian shores from abroad was proscribed and a vigilant watch on the activities of the Indian students abroad was kept. The headquarters of their secret activities were at the "India House" at Highgate in London. Mr. Sawarkar was one of the prime movers amongst the Indian students abroad in setting up revolutionary secret societies in India with a view to bringing about an armed revolution. He was arrested and convicted and sent for penal servitude in the Andamans.

Mr. Sawarkar, during the last seven years since he regained his freedom in 1936, chose to offer his full weight to "Hindu Mahasabha" of which he has been the presiding authority for the last five years. The problem of Indian Independence presupposes unity of all Indians irrespective of any community or religion. The Indian National Congress stands for such solidarity. Its first plank is "Hindu-Muslim unity" and towards that end let us hope Mr. Jinnah and Veer Sawarkar make a common cause. It is high time the Government of India offered Mahatma Gandhi the opportunities of free speech and action.

The life history of Veer Sawarkar of his sixty years is full of youthful vigour, irresistible will and powerful patriotism, painful and patient suffering with dominant optimism to the end. Let us hope his efforts to win independence for India will soon be crowned with success.

B. B. C. And Indian Troops

LONDON, June 1.

Mr. Kenneth Adam, Director of Publicity of the B. B. C, in a letter to the "Times" to-day says that Miss Cornelia Sorabji "surely missed the point" in her letter yesterday criticising B. B. C. broadcasts for Indian troops.

He says: "Indian troops in Britain do not rely upon Sunday half-hour broadcasts in Hindustani for their war and general news. The B. B. C, Sunday half-hour is intended only as a link with their homes as a vehicle for messages from their relations and as an opportunity for providing them with their own music. From time to time a news summary has been introduced experimentally but on each occasion the B. B. C. has been asked to stop it. The troops say they heard it all before".—Reuter.

Lord Willingdon To Marry Again!

Lord Willingdon has been married twice before. In 1924 he married Miss Maxine Frances Mary Forbes—Robertson and in 1934 he married Miss Mary Foster. Both marriages were dissolved.—Reuter.

FLOOD RELIEF WORK IN ORISSA.

The Orissa Relief Committee, Cuttack, writes: When cyclone blew over Orissa in October last, a lakh of cattle perished, thousands of houses collapsed resulting in hundreds of deaths. Epidemic of Cholera broke out and grains were not available. Relief work was first started from a Congress House which was declared unlawful by an order of the Government. The "New Orissa" and the "Dainik Asha" helped us in our propaganda work. Among those summoned by Dr. Khare for discussions of problems to anti-Indian legislation in South Africa is Mr. M. A. Jinnah.

The impudence of Dr. Khare is almost shocking. How dare he!

In any case, the Qaid-e-Azam, we trust, will summarily reject such an invitation, or, for that matter, any invitation for any purpose from any member of the Government or Government themselves until the Governor-General in Council has given full proof of a complete change in policy and submitted to the Qaid-e-Azam in writing a full and unconditional acceptance of Pakistan, whatever it may mean.

Jinnah Puts League In False Position

HYDERABAD (Dn.), May 31

Commenting on the attitude assumed by Mr. Jinnah in respect of Mahatma Gandhi's letter to him, Dr. Syed Abdul Latif said, "Whatever view one might take of Mr. Jinnah's latest performance one thing is clear. The League has now lost the position of vantage which it occupied since the Congress went off the scene.

That position had given the League the privilege to take the initiative to end the deadlock and thereby add to its strength and influence.

This privilege, Mr. Jinnah has petulently thrown away without even consulting his Working Committee. As a result the League will now have to recede into the background

The real deadlock is between the Congress and the British Government. That between the League and the Congress has been given importance because of the major deadlock and as a handy argument against the Congress

Once the Congress and the British Government reach a settlement, which they will do one day in each other's interests the League will either have to fit into it willy-nilly or go into the wilderness.

That is the fate which will stare the League in the face to-morrow if its rank and file do not in time realise whither they are drifting.

Mr. Jinnah had a splendid opportunity to play the role of mediator between the Congress and the British Government and bring about a reconciliation and achieve the League's object too with their mutual goodwill.

But obsessed as he is with his innate and insatiate desire to humiliate his political opponents, particularly Mahatma Gandhi and every turn that he could not display qualities befitting that role.

"His latest behaviour has placed the League in a decidedly false position. What is Muslim politics worth if it chooses to discard its moral touch? The hour indeed calls for a serious searching of hearts on the part of the League's Working Committee and Council and for a reorientation of their policy and method of work.

Or else they will be leaving for the younger generation a legacy of troubles by no means easy to surmount".

Questions For Jinnah

Mr. B. F. Bharucha writes:—

Mr. Jinnah,

(1) How can India or the outside world gulp down your statement, that your Delhi speech was grossly misreported by the Indian Press? (2) You cannot accuse your own paper "Dawn" for such a hostile act? (3) And if your statement re. letter from Gandhiji was so misreported, why wasn't it corrected, ere this? (4) And, if your demand was identical with that of the Government of India, where was the sense in your asking Gandhiji to leave the Viceroy alone and to write to you direct? (5) And if your demand was so definite, and if Gandhiji's letter did not comply with it, why didn't you repudiate it straightway? (6) Why were you so much lost in thought over it? (7) Why did you decline to make a statement to the Press? (8) And if your demand was so definite in your speech, as you now make out, your own paper, "Dawn", would not have condemned the Government action. (9) Nor the President of the Bihar Muslim League characterised the action as a big blunder. (10) Nor the Secretary of the Sind Provincial Muslim League said so emphatically, that the "Government's refusal will be condemned by all sections of public opinion both in and out of India!" These are spontaneous and sincere observations. (11) If those in the know say, Mr. Jinnah, that your present explanation is an after-thought, are they wrong? And how, please? And if they go further and maintain, that Maxwell has, despite all your acuteness, checkmated you, do they err? And where please? (12) Table-turning is an art; and it is now chrystal clear, that you have made it a fine art! That may do credit to a lawyer or a diplomat; but not to a statesman or a leader of the people, Mr. Jinnah.

QUEUE UP AT BUS STOPS!

Police Commissioner Issues Order To Stop Dangerous Practice

For some time past considerable disorder and confusion has been caused at bus stops in Bombay City by large numbers of would-be passengers "rushing" omnibuses. This has resulted in persons being injured, in preventing passengers from alighting, and in providing an excellent opportunity for bag-snatchers and pick-pockets. Not only this, but the bus conductor has been unable to exercise any control, and in consequence buses have been crowded beyond their legal carrying capacity.

Taking all these points into consideration, the Commissioner of Police, Bombay, has now issued an order that intending passengers shall form queues and enter omnibuses in strict rotation. Any intending passenger failing to stand in a queue or who tries to enter an omnibus other than in rotation or who enters an omnibus before passengers who wish to alight have done so, renders himself liable to prosecution and punishment with a fine which may extend to Rs. 100, and any person disobeying this order who refuses to give his name and address on being required to do so by a Police Officer, or gives a name and address which the Police Officer has reason to believe to be false, renders himself liable to immediate arrest.

Mangaldas Market To Reopen Today

BOMBAY, Tuesday.

It is understood that following a settlement of the dispute between the cloth dealers and the employees of the shops in the Mangaldas Market, the latter have called off their strike. The dispute was in regard to the employees' demand for an increased dearness allowance. This was granted by the fancy cloth dealers of the market, but the Gamthi cloth dealers had remained adamant. It is learnt that at a meeting held this evening, these dealers also have agreed to grant the allowance. The strike has therefore been called off, and the market will re-open from Wednesday morning.

The question of increasing the Gumasthas' salaries however remains unsettled.

TETUAN: Numerous mosques and shrines are being reconstructed out of one million Passetas granted by the High Commissioner of Spanish Morocco Gen. Orgaz for the reconstruction of Moroccan places of worship.

CITY MARKETS

BOMBAY, Tuesday.

SHARES: The local Share Bazar was quietly steady with a restricted turnover awaiting details of cloth control. The Government is bent upon to control the industry and the same may be said in long-range future of the textile industry. As usual speculation will be considered the root cause of all difficulties and under one plea or the other some form of control is bound to be there as cloth prices have become prohibitive. There was scattered buying and selling on the Stock Exchange which resulted into narrow price movement. Investors are inclined to await developments. It is true that speculative interest in the market is limited and we do not look for any important change pending the declaration of cloth control programme. In the meantime the market remains at the control of jobbers who are taking quick turns on either side. Tata Steel Dfds. opened at Rs. 1940 and after declining to Rs. 1927 improved to Rs. 1950 and steadied at Rs. 1945. Ordinary shares opened at Rs. 388 and improved to Rs. 394. Bombay Dyeing shares opened at Rs. 1855 and declined to Rs. 1830. Later prices improved to Rs. 1860 and reached to Rs. 1845. Market was irregular.

Later on there was slightly improved buying which hardened prices. It is interesting to note that trading in shares is increasing near hedges over 150 are given.

The Half-Column "By Dim"

If you read two bits of news—viz., of the Mystery Ship in the Pacific and Reuter's questions re. Churchill's whereabouts, you may come to the conclusion that Churchill is in the Pacific. Perhaps he's coming to India as Viceroy!!

What a harrowing tale one hears of Bijapur from those who can give a first-hand account of what they have seen. According to one very reliable individual they are even eating cactus to fill their empty stomachs. I myself have seen authentic pictures of the villagers being reduced to skinning and eating dead animals, who are perishing in famine-ridden area. It is true the Government of Bombay have been sympathetic and have been faced with many difficulties which they cannot overcome. Even so when one thinks of the 75 lacs of rupees spent by the National War Front every year, while men and women in Bijapur are eating cacti and dead animals, one begins to feel there is something wrong somewhere. To date Bombay has raised a lac and 52 thousand. Ahmedabad has promised a lac and 25 thousand, but only Rs. 35,000 has been received out of that. But all this money will in the end be wasted if the district faces another famine. Already in 50 years they have had 10 famines, though experts say that there is no reason why Bijapur should suffer in this respect. If only Government were to adopt a long-range policy, these repeated hardships might be spared to these people. And those who are working to tide the distressed people would feel they have worked to some purpose other than that of giving temporary relief between famines. The case is one which should be studied closely by experts. This is not being done and it's a short-sightedness for which they will pay again.

According to the Famine Code, hutting, sanitation and providing implements are laid down as Government's responsibility. Government, according to reliable first-hand reports have had none of these done. The huts are little triangular shacks made by the villagers from leaves, the height of a man and barely 4x4. When the rains came they became soggy and damp, which exposes the men, women and children in these wet days to an epidemic of pneumonia. Already cholera has broken out in one part. The situation makes us more than anxious.

The grain figures make sad reading. Of the Collector's demand for May which was for 1,20,000 bags of grain to feed 10 lacs of people, only 54,000 were delivered upto the 27th of May. Since then 80,000 more bags have been rushed up, but this was done at the end of the month for which it was the quota. And people can't live as it were eating "on an average". It is explained by the Bombay Government that they have been let down in this respect by Hyderabad and the U. P. Even so to quote the Duke of Windsor's words when he was Edward VIII: "Something must be done."
